

Course 4 - Junctional Rhythms

Modality: Self-Paced Learning

Duration:

The course on "Junctional Rhythms" provides students with a detailed understanding of the electrical activity originating from the atrioventricular (AV) junction in the heart and the various rhythm disturbances that can arise from this region. This course explores the mechanisms underlying junctional rhythms, their electrocardiographic (ECG) characteristics, clinical significance, and management strategies.